

Abstract

A system and method for strong authentication achieved in a single round trip is disclosed, which reduces the amount of time needed for a mobile node to be authenticated by the network. In an embodiment of the present invention, the,
5 authentication time is approximately three times faster than for 3GPP.

